++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Rain and snow in south clearing. Otherwise cold and frosty.

This Evening and Tonight:
Outbreaks of rain, sleet and snow across central and southern England and Wales clearing southwards with ice patches forming. Most places then dry, clear and frosty, with a severe frost in some Scottish glens. Snow showers in the far north.

Sunday:
Some rain across south-western areas with perhaps some snow over the hills in south Wales. Elsewhere, largely dry with bright or sunny spells for some. Wintry showers in far north.

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Patchy rain and snow in the southwest at first but otherwise largely dry and cold on Monday. Increasingly unsettled thereafter with some disruptive snow possible in central and northern areas.
